We Rode for Rainbow

It seems a while ago now, but our muscles have just about recovered.

Our second Ride for Rainbow, last December 9th, was a great success, raising over 60 000 baht for the disabled children and orphans of Rainbow House in Pak Kred.

As with the previous ride, we got to Ayuthaya early on Sunday morning and began the long, 69km, ride to Pak Kred. And, as with the previous ride, Mr Tim was the first of our riders to finish.

Mr Cris, riding for the first time, was an early casualty. He got scared on seeing a dead snake in the road and rode into a rice field. Nevertheless he was soon patched up and bravely soldiered on despite some saddle soreness later in the day that meant he had to ride standing up.

Mr Andrew also had an eventful ride. We have deduced that it was he who was responsible for a young girl crashing and falling off her bike. She was ok, but if you see Mr Andrew riding on the streets of Bangkok, beware!! He's a menace to society.

Elsewhere, Mr Joe and Mr Mark had peaceful and uneventful rides, both managed to stay on the road and not injure anyone.

This was the fourth Ride for Rainbow event and in total almost 1 000 000 baht has been raised.

Once again we thank you very, very much for your generous support and help and we look forward to the next ride. Why not join us?

Our Field Trips this School Year 2012-2013

January and February became RCIS and RLC's field trip months as the Early and Primary Years students went to visit three different locations. Whilst the field trips were unbelievably exhausting, every one seemed to have enjoyed their trip.

Trip to Safari World

It was Thursday, exactly the last day of January, 2013 when the Nursery, Kindergarten 1 and 2 and Year 1 students set off for Safari World. Arriving early at school, clad in their PE uniform, their apparent excitement was clearly written on their glowing faces for all to see.

At exactly 8:30 in the morning, the Kindergarten 1 and 2 and Year 1 students and their teachers boarded the big bus whilst the Nursery students and their teachers boarded the school van. A few minutes later the big bus and the school van started moving, setting off for Safari World.

Just after an hour, we arrived at Safari World just in time for the individual shows. Everyone quickly passed through the gate with the lady security officer busy clicking the pedometer counting each and every student and teacher that entered the gate. On entering, we went straight to the sea lion show where we were all amazed by the sea lions' tricks and we couldn't help but to scream out loud, "Wowwww!!!". Then we headed to the Orangutan show and then onto the elephant show. The dolphin show followed, the stadium was full of spectators, tourists and students. Loud music filled the air whilst everyone anxiously awaited the show to start. Suddenly, the DJ played Psy's Opa, Gangnam Style and without any encouragement, RC's students quickly stood and started dancing—gangnam style. Camera's flashed everywhere as many spectators took the opportunity to capture this enchanting showcase of talent and confidence. Finally, it was time for another show to begin, where we were all astonished by the skills shown by the dolphins and their trainers. It was almost lunchtime when the show finished so we made our way to the cafeteria to have our lunch.

After lunch we all took the opportunity to relax for a few minutes whilst some of our little ones took forty winks. Then we boarded the bus and van to tour safari world and check out the animals. We saw many kinds of animals such as rhinos, giraffes, lions, tigers just to name a few. We also saw a variety of birds. The tour complete, we returned to school, a weary bunch of souls with smiles on our faces.

The trip was enjoyed by everyone and we are looking forward to the next school year's field trip.

Chockchai Farm Take Two

Whilst the Year 3 classes went touring around Bangkok and the Chao Phraya River, the Years 2 and Years 4 to 7 students went to visit Chockchai Farm in Nakhon Ratchasima province on the 7th of February, 2013. Whilst some students had previously visited, their renewed excitement was as good as the first timers.

Leaving the school grounds at 8:00 in the morning that day, we reached Chockchai Farm just in time for our agreed scheduled tour around the farm. And so, after watching the movie presentation about the history of Chockchai Farm, we all went straight to the cow milking area. The lady farm attendant briefly explained the process of milking the cow. She then asked some student volunteers to milk the cow. The courageous Nongdee (Year 7) and another student tried the task. Then we all proceeded to the ice cream making area. We watched the video presentation about the processes of making ice cream at the farm, but not the actual ice cream production as they were cleaning up the area. Although, we did have a sample taste of their "Umm" delicious ice cream.

Riding on a tram, we continued our tour around the farm's green pastures. Whilst our eyes were looking around the beautiful and magnificent scenery, the tour guide continued to explain the variety of grasses fed to cows, how the cows were segregated and a lot more information. Then we stopped at the cowboy ranch and explored the area. We also treated ourselves to some tasty snacks such as ice cream and fresh milk whilst waiting for the cowboy show. After the cowboy show we all headed to the farm's zoo area. There the teachers and the students alike had the opportunity to feed the animals. After noon, we watched the animal show and went to have our lunch.

After lunch, it was almost two o'clock in the afternoon and we all boarded the bus and headed back to school. Tired, some students had their nap whilst others continued socialising with their friends. We arrived at Lumpini Park, the parent-student's pick-up point, right on time.

One Day in Bangkok

With sun hats and water bottles at the ready, the Year 3 field trip set off on their expedition into the depths of Bangkok. On the itinerary, The Golden Mount, Siam Museum and to complete the journey, a boat trip along the Chao Phraya River.

We set off first thing in the morning. Weaving through the traffic to get to our first destination, it was great to see that we had missed the major traffic jams Bangkok is famous for. It wasn't long before the vans pulled up outside a quiet but distinctive structure known as The Golden Mount.

The students' excitement was apparent as they gathered at the gates ready to climb the stairs. There were bells and lots of them, hanging neatly in rows just waiting to be rung. It was like the morning call to prayer, with each person finding it irresistible to walk past a bell without clanging it.

Everyone entered the temple respectfully and made their way to the top. A great, golden chedi rose majestically above the structure, surrounded by a wonderful, 360 degree view of Bangkok. With a cooling breeze, everyone mulled around to glimpse a view of the Rama VIII Bridge in the distance and the vast city skyline in the opposite direction. Those who wanted to, prayed to Buddha and those who didn't, found a giant gong and gonged and gonged.

Siam Museum is situated along a side street very close to the Grand Palace. With an atmosphere to that of a city library, Year 3 found it difficult to contain their enthusiasm as they entered the first hall to watch an introductory film about 'Being Thai'. It was time to move along and with permission given to be able to touch anything in museum, the classes meandered their way through the halls with very itchy fingers.

The themes in each room were interesting and varied. From a classic street scene selling som tam to the origins of Suvarnaphum, telling how man developed over the years, from farming to the strategies of war. With maps and models supporting the information it provided a classic environment for learning.

The further we went into the museum the more fun everyone had, particularly in the 1950s café. From serving behind the café bar to driving an old car, the children were most definitely engaged in their surroundings. Completing the tour, the students signed an interactive visitor's book.

After a Macdonald's lunch that resembled a medieval feast it was time to head to the river to find our boat. It really was a super afternoon for a leisurely boat ride. The pupils, togged up into their life jackets and made themselves comfortable in their seats. We set off up the river to take a closer look at the Rama VIII Bridge. Many interesting structures along the river bank caught our interest and with a running commentary from the witty Mr Tim, everyone's attention was definitely held.

The final stage of the trip was upon us, making our way back to school on the BTS. With small groups, each member of staff ushered their children to the ticket kiosk and then onto the platform. The whole operation ran beautifully, with the change of platforms at Siam and then alighting at Ploenchit. Everyone made their way back to school on foot, tired but happy.

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

Can you believe that it's been five months
since Christmas has passed?

No doubt your days were filled up with the hustle and bustle of getting presents wrapped, sending out those holiday cards (I hope they all got them on time, but it's the thought that counts, right?), last-minute decorating and planning out the menu for your Christmas Eve dinner. Here at RC, we started Christmas early. With final exams coming up, we had to revise and practice our dance. Teachers had to choreograph their dance as the theme for the Christmas Show was "Christmas Past." It was a bit of a challenge as we need to dig to the bottom of the archaic chest that Pi Robin (our custodian) had kept away. Oh well, as Ms. Mary would always say, "Don't worry Ailene, it will always come together in the end!" The doors of Tobacco Monopoly were opened at 9:00am. Teachers as well as the students had butterflies in their stomachs as Mr. Tim, our emcee, announced that the show was commencing. About thirty-three children walked down the aisle holding a candle whilst singing 'Silent Night'. These children joined RC's Got Talent last year so, as a reward for their audacity, they had the opportunity to showcase their singing ability again. Our choir had their own rendition of various songs such as All I want for Christmas and Last Christmas. When the clock took us back time to 2012...
....oh, how great it would be to turn the clock back in time, I bet a few of us would do some things differently, ah but alas, I digress... now where were we...?

Performers took the stage excitedly, class after class, dressed up and primed to give the performance of their lives. The audience was treated to a short excerpt of the 'past' performance before experiencing the 'present' one. Mr Tim ran the show with a very firm hand perhaps even you had a flashback of being in a classroom again. Audience participation was fully encouraged and expected as we took this trip through time together. Ms Lina's Ballet and Gymnastics Troupe brought us back to the present for a short while until the teachers once again whizzed us back to the past. The culmination of the event was Father Christmas armed with sacks full of toys to shower upon the eagerly awaiting crowd.

A buffet lunch followed, where compliments were given and received, and children either buoyed up with adrenaline or exhausted by excitement milled around.

Was all the hard work and effort worth it we always ask ourselves... and the answer is always the same...of course it was!
See ya in December, same time..... but not necessarily the same place!

SNIPPETS

Early Years Friday Camp

The children arrived at school that Friday morning as super-heroes. They were dressed in a variety of costumes: Spiderboys and Spidergirls, Batboys and Batgirls, Cars, an Ironman, a nurse, a Superkid, faeries, princesses, Ben 10 and several others. The most popular characters were Batman and Spiderman.

That morning, we first had our normal assembly and snack. Then we had a superhero photo shoot and dancing, followed by fun-filled games. The students played Simon Says, Bobbing for Apples, Super Groups, and Superhero Relay. The children really enjoyed themselves. When the games were over, the K2 classes went to the yellow building whilst the K1 and Nursery classes stayed at the Early Learning Center for lunch.

We had more fun activities in the afternoon. Some children watched a movie while others coloured or drew pictures. It was a wonderful day, and we look forward to the next Friday camp.

LOY KRATONG

This past November 21st, 2012, we celebrated Loy Kratong at RC International School., for the purpose of letting students understand the value, culture, and meaning behind the Loy Kratong festival.

When the activity began at 8:30 a.m., we immediately noticed that the students were all showing their participation by wearing their beautiful traditional Thai costumes. In the opening activity, students from Year 7 along with their Thai teachers shared knowledge about the history of Loy Kratong to the delight of the other students. After that, it was time for the Loy Kratong dance (Ram Wong Loy Kratong). Each class came out one by one (teachers and students included) and danced in a circle, while performing Thai hand gestures. At the conclusion of the dance segment, each class joined together to make a kratong using all-natural materials such as banana tree trunk pieces, banana leaves, and assorted flowers. Then each class gave a prayer of thanks to the water before finally releasing their kratongs into the school swimming pool.

Sublime Songkran

As the second term came to a close at RC, the students partook in the annual Songkran celebration festivities. The day started with a more traditional look at Songkran as the members of the year four class narrated the story of the origins of Songkran, which was illustrated with artwork created by the Year 6 class. The Year 3 and 4 class also performed the song ‘Ram Wong Wan Songkran’ taught to them by their Thai teachers. The students were also treated to a couple of homemade movies, as Mr Andrew and Mr Paul taught the Do’s and Dont’s of Songkran (<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=gLfvlRcmSNE>), and then Mr Tim’s Year 3 class showed the world premier of their movie ‘My Teacher is a Monster’.

Temperatures were reaching the high 30’s on that hot Thursday morning, as the water games were welcomed by all, as Years 1 to 3 headed to the roof and the older years played downstairs culminating in a gauntlet style challenge in the swimming pool. By lunchtime the students were tired out from the morning’s fun, and the delicious buffet arranged was a welcome sight. In the theme of the Thai New Year, the students were treated to a Thai movie marathon in the afternoon, where the children had the choice of 6 different Thai movies to watch projected in each of the classrooms. The Songkran celebration once again proved to be a great success with everyone in a jovial mood, and I would like to again wish everyone all the best in upcoming Thai new year. Sawadeepeemai.

RC Welcomes the Year of the Snake

Dragons, games, ampaos, and fire crackers helped bring in the ‘Year of the Snake’ as RC celebrated the Chinese New Year early on the 8th of February. Students came to school dressed in red and traditional Chinese costumes, as they spent a morning learning about this very special holiday for the Chinese people. We were treated to a dramatic performance from the Year 6 students who acted out the story of the mythical Chinese creature Nian, as well as a musical performance of the Chinese New Year song ‘Xin nian hao’ sung by the Year 4 and 5 class. We also played a game in which we looked at the characteristic of people born in different years of the Chinese Zodiac to see if we could predict which of the RC teachers were born in that year. Here are a list of the characteristics. Can you match the animal to the RC teacher?

By: Mr. Andrew

 Tiger people are brave, powerful, loyal, intelligent, competent, and stubborn. Tigers make great friends. Tiger people tend not to respect their elders and that can get them in a lot of trouble.	 Horse people are popular, cheerful, quick witted, and shy. For some reason, horse people have a great deal of trouble believing they are loved, when in fact, horse people are easy to like and love.	 Dog people are loyal friends, quick to learn, eager to please, and always try to do their best. They prefer to be with people they know and like. Dog people cannot stand injustice.
 Rabbit people are lucky, happy, independent, affectionate, bright, ambitious, and trustworthy. Rabbit people have little interest in learning to appear smart. They simply like to know how things work.	 Sheep people are elegant, wise, gentle, shy, and compassionate. They can be bossy, but that's because they're worried things will not get done correctly. This character trait often makes money for them.	 People who are born in the Year of the Pig are intelligent, sincere, brave, popular, and treat all people with great kindness. Pig people are often late and often forgetful.
 Dragon people are honest, full of energy, stubborn, loyal, strong, and protective. Dragon people are incredibly lucky. They love flattery, and can be attracted to bad behavior. That is their weakness.	 Monkey people are quick, funny, nosy, clever, witty, and successful. They have wonderful memories and are well informed about everything. They tend to chatter. This does drive friends away sometimes.	 People born in the Year of the Rat are famous for cheerfulness and kindness. They are generous with those they love. Rat people love to gossip. That can cost them many friendships if they are not careful.
 Snake people are wise and focused. They trust their own judgment. Snake people cannot help but do their best because they hate to fail at anything. Snake people believe everyone should lend a helping hand.	 Rooster people are early risers, proud, alert, deep thinkers and good speakers. They like to stay close to home. If you can break through their natural suspicion, they make wonderful friends.	 Ox people are easy going and have a great deal of self-assurance that helps help them to be successful. Ox people have thoughtful responses. Ox people love deeply and share their strength with those they love.

Baking Buddies!

For a little fun, the Year 6 and Year 7 classes joined forces to bake up a yummy-in-your-tummy batch of goodies on the 15th of the March. The Year 6’s Chocolate Chip, Snickerdoodles, Shortbread, Sugar Cookies, Peanut Butter, Wafers, both vegetarian and non-veg competed for sales with Red Velvet Chocolate and Vanilla Supreme cupcakes produced by the Year 7 class.

As part of the English curriculum on ‘following instructions’ each student was required to find a recipe, gather supplies, make necessary oven temperature and ingredient conversions if needed, work cooperatively and of course, follow the recipe directions. Some did, and others didn’t!

One group that shall remain unnamed... (you know who you are) misread 1 tablespoon of salt for $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of salt. Needless to say, they failed the taste-test! Happily though the next batch of cinnamon buns could rival those sold at Starbucks and were only half the price!

Everything baked sold out quickly during the lunch time break, and best of all, the scrumptious smells of cookies baking lingered in the classroom for two or three days, making this Bake Sale a time to remember. Maybe we’ll bake again before the school year ends!

A Special Guest for Year 4

In the last week before the half term break, the Year 4 had the pleasure of welcoming to their classroom, Ronald Bibbings, to speak about his life and experiences of living through the Second World War. The Year 4 class were currently nearing the end of their studies of children's lives during the Second World War, and having this opportunity allowed the students to bring together the knowledge they had learnt to ask the questions that interested them and listen to a man that had lived history.

Ronald Bibbings is the father of Year 2's Teacher Mary, and was on a 3 month long vacation in Thailand. The following is an extract written by Saranya of the Year 4 class of what she learnt from the talk:

On the 1st of September 1939 the German army attacked Poland which signalled the start of World War 2. Mr Bibbings was 5 years old at the time that the prime minister gave an order to say that war had begun, and had ordered the army, navy and air forces to fight. The Germans started bombing Britain, where they targeted gun factories and cities such as Liverpool. One bomb even blasted near Mr. Bibbings house , though luckily it was not damaged. He could hear the blitz banging and banging, which he did not like, though he was thankful to be alive. For protection Mr Bibbings owned a gas mask. He also used tape for sticking on the windows to block out light during the bombing. When the bombings started he often looked for protection by hiding under a table.

Eventually he got evacuated to the countryside near Bristol. He travelled there by train, where he got to work on a farm, with the many other children in the countryside. Mr. Bibbings's diet consisted of porridge for breakfast and bread and jam for lunch. Due to the war, food was running out, so some people needed to grow their own food...

Thanks for a fascinating lesson

On behalf of all the Year 4 class and myself, we would like to say a big thank you to Mr Bibbings and his wife Dorothy for taking the time out of their vacation to present a very informative and interesting talk, as well as taking the time to answer questions,. This was a truly fascinating lesson for the students. Having someone who had actually lived history was a huge benefit to the children. No matter how many books or internet sites on a subject someone may choose to read, the knowledge gained by talking to someone who has experienced these events first hand cannot be duplicated. So once again thank you.

ISAT-TIEE 10th Anniversary

RC International School and Ruamrudee Learning Centre joined ISAT-TIEE's 10th Anniversary held at the Royal Paragon Hall in Siam Paragon on Friday the 22nd to Sunday the 24th of February, 2013. ISAT-TIEE is an annual international education exhibition jointly sponsored by the International Schools' Association of Thailand and the Department for Industry Promotion (DIP). This year's exhibition was participated in by various international educational institutions in Thailand and around the ASEAN region. There were also representatives from different universities in North America, Europe and Australia.

RCIS's students' talents were once again recognised when they were invited to perform on stage for the pleasure of parents, teachers, students and school administrators. The Year 4's and 6's were chosen to represent RCIS and that they certainly did. The resulting applause proved that the student's strong stage presence and excellent dance moves had amazed the spectators, as always! A pat on the back for Mr. Mark, Mr. Joseph and Miss Ailene, their trainers.

We would also like to express our thanks to all of our teachers, teacher assistants and office staff who helped make our representation in the 10th ISAT-TIEE a success. Thank you.

The MV Logos Hope Experience

MV Logos Hope is tagged as the biggest floating library in the world. It is operated by the German Christian Charitable Organization, GBA Ships e.V. MV Logos Hope generally visits ports for two weeks and is continually sailing from port to port year round. In it are hundreds upon thousands of books sold at low prices and some 400 crew and staff representing 45 different countries. The crew and staff join the organisation and live on board for two years as volunteers (Wikipedia).

To provide a learning experience for our students, RCIS visited MV Logos Hope on three separate occasions. The Years 1 and 2, Year 3 and Year 4 to 7 classes went on the 5th, the 6th and the 7th of March, 2013 respectively. As expected, our students had a great time, fun and experience being on board the ship and of course spending their money on books.

In February 2013, the Years 4 to 7 students sat the International Students' Assessment (ISA). The ISA is administered by the Australian Council for Educational Research (ACER) annually. It is one of the two external assessments that RCIS students sit each year. The other is the Standards Assessment Tests administered from the Standard and Testing Agency in the United Kingdom. RCIS uses the results of these assessments to monitor the progress our students are making and to ascertain our students' strengths and weaknesses and introduce the necessary intervention to help them make further progress. RCIS has already received the results for the ISA February 2013 administration and they will be ready for release as soon as printing is complete.
